Boundary negotiations with China

1076. SHRI VUAY J. DARDA: Will the Minister of EXTERNAL AFFAIRS be pleased to state:

whether the Eleventh round of boundary negotiations were held in Beijing in the month of September, 2007 and useful and positive discussions were held;

if so, whether India and China have set up a new working group on border dispute; whether India also drew the attention of China that its troops had made at least 140 border incursions over the past one year, most of them in J&K Ladakh region and in Arunachal Pradesh;

if so, the other decisions taken; and whether any final settlement on border dispute has been reached?

THE MINISTER OF EXTERN AL AFFAIRS (SHRI PRANAB MUKHERJEE): (a) to (e) The eleventh round of special Representatives Talks on the India-China boundary question was held in Beijing from 24 to 26 September 2007. The Special Representatives of the two countries, Mr. M.K. Narayanan, National Security Adviser and Mr. Dai Bingguo, Vice Foreign Minister held useful and positive discussions on the framework for the settlement of the India-China boundary question. The two sides agreed to continue their discussions at the next round of talks to be held in Beijing. The specific dates would be decided through diplomcatic channels.

There is no commonly delineated Line of Actual Control (LAC) between India and China. From time to time, on account of differences in the perception of the LAC, situations have arisen on the ground that could have been avoided if we had a common perception of the LAC. Government regularly take up such perceived violations along the LAC with the Chinese side through established mechanisms including the Joint Working Group, the Expert Group, border personnel meetings, flag meetings and normal diplomactic channels.
